ELECT SUPERINTENDENT AND RAISE HIS SALARY

Charleroi School Board Continues Prof. Pollock in Office

PAY HIM COMPLIMENT

Directors Note Advancement of Schools in a Material Way

With no opposition to face. Prof. Thomas L. Pollock was re-elected superintendent of the Charleroi schools b the directors at their convention for that purpose on Tuesday evening. Moreover the salary of Superintendent Pollock was raised to $2,100, which is on a par with salaries of other school superintendents in school districts of Western Pennsylvania.

Prof. Pollock was elected for a four year term the length of term provided for by the school code. He has not yet been in charge of the schools a complete term, having been elected to fill out the unexpired term of Prof. James G. Pentz, who resigned to accept a position as state high school inspector. During his incumbency the schools have been developed to a high state of efficiency.

In advancing the salary of Prof Pollock from $1,700 to $2,100 various matters were considered. First a schedule of the salaries paid in other towns of similar school conditions was gone over. It showed the salaries elsewhere to range from $2,000 to $2,500. Monessen pays $2,500 and Donora pays $2,000. Then it was considered that within the next four years the school enrolment would increase probably 20 per cent, placing a much greater burden on the superintendent who already is a very busy man. It would not be posible, it sems by the school code to advance the salary for four years if the matter was not advanced at the time of his election.

To Observe Memorial Day

Ministerial Association Starts Movement for Observance of Day

At their meeting on Tuesday afternoon the Charleroi Ministerial Association started a movement for the proper observance of Memorial day. A sermon to the old soldiers is to be preached in the Washington Avenue Presbyterian church by the pastor, Rev. John R. Burson, on the Sunday preceding Memorial day. A committee was appointed by the association to confer with committees from other organizations of the town in regard to arranging for a proper observance of Memorial day.

At the meeting, Rev. T. E. Wilson read a paper on the last chapter of "Christianizing the Social Order," a book the ministers have been studying for the last year. Rev. William Butler of Washington was present and made an address to the body.

CIRCUS GOOD ON WET DAY

Jones Bros. and Wilson Give Two Pleasing Performances

SOGGY FIELD HAMPERS

In spite of the inclement weather of the day good sized crowds waded to the show grounds on Tuesday to witness the offerings of the Jones Bros. and Wilson Shows. Generally they were well pleased, the only disagreeable feature being the muddy, soggy field that could not be avoided. It not only made conditions disagreeable for people in getting to and from the grounds, but it also made conditions disagreeable for the show people, who were doing their best to please and entertain.

There was little red lemonade—but then who could enjoy red lemonade on a rainy day. But all the other features of an up-todate circus and animal show were there. The Jones Bros. and Wilson shows carry with them a good lot of wild animals, and more, they make them act, even at the risk of lives.

There were several feature acts. In fact the show was made up of feature acts. One of the feature acts was Madame Zara, who made leopards and jaguars go through acts. She had to work hard because they showed more of an anxiety to mutilate her than to perform. A young man—it doesn't matter about his name—risked his life by dodging into a den of lions to compel them to perform. There were enough of them to tear him to pieces.

MINE INACTIVITY CAUSES POOR TRADE

Month of April Shows Shortening of Coal Shipments Through Lock No. 4--Slowest Month Since April of 1912

Owing to the inactivity that reigned during a part of April because of trouble over the wage scale of the miners the April shipments of coal through Lock No. 4 fell away below the average. In fact the figures show the shipments to have been lower than any month since April of 1912, when wage scale trouble caused similar trouble.

The coal trade through Lock No. 4 for the month aggregated 6,988,000 bushels. The record of April 1912 was 6,609,000 bushels.

The figures for April of this year at Lock No. 4 are as follows: Locks, up stream 359, down steam 334; crafts, up stream 679, down stream 569. During the month shipments of sand totaled 16,000 bushels and gravel 52,000 bushels. A model barge containing 1,300 tons of wire nails and other steel products was one of the featuring barges. The rainfall for the month was 3.40 inches.

The March coal trade was good, the figures showing total shipments aggregating 19,152,000 bushels

SCHOOL BOARD WILL CONTROL PLAYGROUNDS

Charleroi Directors Agree to Plan for Operation of Institution The Coming Year---Borough Will Stand Half Expense

The school board will operate the Charleroi playgrounds this year. This was decided upon Tuesday evening at the meeting of the Charleroi directors.

Last year and the preceding year the playgrounds was operated by a committee known as the Playgrounds Auxiliary. This plan worked out well simply because of the hard work of the men composing the committee, but it put all the duties on a few. This year the change in plans was contemplated in order to put the playgrounds on a more systematic basis and to put them under control of the schools, where it was agreed they really should be.

In accepting the duties of control of the playgrounds the board specified that the borough stand one-half of the expense. Already council has agreed to this plan. Arrangements for the opening of the playgrounds and for their operation will be gotten under way at the next meeting of the school board. It is expected the opening will be immediately upon the close of the schools.

PLEADERS ADMIT MINE VIOLATIONS

Andy Pohts, a miner employed at the Black Diamond mine, near Monongahela, entered a plea of guilty Tuesday at the county court to violating the mining laws. He had refused to obey an order to place a post at a dangerous point in one of the rooms. The prosecutor was Alexander McCanch a mine inspector. Pohts was directed to pay the costs and a fine of $25 and in defaut to undergo imprisonment for 60 days in the county jail.

Harrison Dawson Succumbs Suddenly to Heart Trouble

WAS WELL KNOWN MAN

Had Lived in Charleroi Eleven Years, Coming Here From Fayette County

Seated in the chair where two years before his wife had suffered a stroke of paralysis that meant her death, Harrison Dawson, aged 74 years, the head of a well known Charleroi family, died suddenly this morning, supposedly from heart trouble. He was reading a paper at the time. His son, James Dawson was in the basement of the Dawson home at 210 Lookout avenue when he heard a slight noise. He paid little attention to it at the time, but upon returning to the rooms above found his father still sitting in the chair, but with life extinct.

Mr. Dawson arose as usual this morning and ate his breakfast. He went out into the yard to feed some chickens that he was raising and returned to the house. He sat down and read first from the Bible. Then the morning paper arrived and he took it up to look over it. He seemed in his usual health in spite of the fact that during the last few days he had suffered from a slight attack of grip. It was while reading the paper that he died. When found by his son, Mr. Dawson was clutching the paper tightly in one hand and his head was thrown back against the chair, but otherwise he was in the same position in which he had been last seen.

Mr. Dawson was born on December 9, 1839 at Continental No. 3 in Fayette county on the old Dawson homestead. John Dawson was the name of his father. The greater part of his life was spent on a farm in Luzerne township of Fayette county. He moved to Charleroi eleven years ago, and since has led a retired life.

The sons and daughters who survive are. J. W. Dawson, Esq., of Uniontown: James Dawson, Lutellus Dawson and George Dawson of Charleroi, and Mrs. George B. Nelan and Mrs. Clark Lancaster of Charleroi. Also six grandchildren survive. They are Kenneth and Gerald Nelan, Marie Lancaster, William Dawson and Paul Dawson. Edgar Dawson a grandson, who was the son of J. W. Dawson of Uniontown is dead. One brother, William H. Dawson of Uniontown and one sister, Mrs. Elizabeth Barnes of Connellsville survive. Mrs. Sarah Jane Murphy, a sister died at Newton, Kan., some time ago.

Mr. Dawson was a member of the Washington Avenue Presbyterian church of Charleroi. Rev. John R. Burson, pastor of the church and Rev. George G. Kerr, of Canonsburg former pastor here will have charge of the funeral services. The funeral will be held on Friday morning at 10 o'clock here at the home and the body will be taken on the noon train to Uniontown. The body will be taken from the train to the Third Presbyterian church there where services will be held. Interment will be in a cemetery there.

WORK AND DRUDGERY.

"Nine-tenths of all work is drudgery," declared Dean Inge of St. Paul's Cathedral, in a recent sermon and now all London is debating the question, says the Pittsburg Dispatch. People who talk about the pleasure of work, he said, do not know what hard work means. All such work is "cant." Lord Chancellor Haldane suggested that the dean was loose in his definitions, that he probably would not call pleasurable work really work at all but pleasure.

"The fundamental issue, the Chancellor believes, is what is work and what is pleasure, when does the one become the other? 'Mr. Dooley,' it may be recalled, offered the solution some years ago, that one man's work might be another man's recreation and vice versa. But that resolves itself into the distinction that you may abandon pleasure when you will, but work must be done. Optional work may be a pleasure but compulsory labor is work.

"The test of the dean's proposition is whether a person likes his work well enough to do it whether he has to earn his living by it or not. There are more of such persons than those obliged to labor daily at uncongenial toil may think. To accept the dean's nine-tenth of drudgery it is necessary to assume that nine-tenths of the workers are engaged in uncongenial labor, which is a rather large assumption. Men and women who take a pride in their work can be found in every honorable occupation. To them their work is not drudgery. Many more would be discontented if they had no set daily task. It furnishes a central interest, a means of "killing time," if you will, that otherwise would overwhelm them in idleness. There is nothing so irksome as having 'nothing to do.' Whether work is drudgery depends mainly upon the worker's relation towards it, uncongeniality, incompetence or laziness. The first two may be overcome by a change of work for which one is fitted, or effort to become competent. For the lazy all work is drudgery but they certainly do not constitute nine-tenths of the workers."

A STEADY JOB.

There are great industries, including agriculture, lumbering and construction work, in which great numbers of the men must be laid off every winter, and these go to swell the army of the unemployed, says the Springfield Republican. If any industries can be found or developed which will give work when these occupations fail, it will help greatly toward a solution of the problem.

It may be noted that the Italian laborers, literate or not, develop a shrewdness and foresight in dealing with this condition of affairs which no literacy test could guarantee. "A steady job" is their ideal, and they have a kind of freemasonry by which they hear of one, no matter where it is. If a worker hears of a contract on the other coast which will keep his shovel busy for a year or more he is off at once, thinking little of the cost of travel in comparison with steady work, and it is not easy for his employer to keep him for finishing up the job on hand.

Much thought, much scheming, much anxious inquiry are given by these humble workingmen and the keenness of their induction is a wonderful as their scent for the weather. When they begin to buy steamship tickets either way the sign is one that students of economic conditions do not ignore. To a certain extent they solve the problem unaided by the government, yet at a serious cost for travel and loss of time. How much can be done to mitigate these recurrent displacements is a question which nobody can yet answer, and there is the more reason for a broad investigation of the problem such as the commission proposes.

There were hand-balancing acts, clown acts performances with ponies, and trapeze, wire walkers and all. They were all good. That much can be said of them. Jones Bros. and Wilson Shows furnished good entertainment at two performances and it was only ill luck that they drew bad weather.

Emigrant's Romance.

How a photograph led to a romance was made known at Liverpool just before the departure for Australia of the White Star liner Irishman, which carries no fewer than five brides-elect going out to join their fiances.

One of these five has never seen her future husband, and has nothing but a photograph to tell her what he looks like. The bride-elect said that a friend of hers went to Australia three years ago as a domestic servant and married later a sheep farmer. The young wife displayed upon the mantelpiece a photograph of a chum of the sheep farmer. Photographs were exchanged and a correspondence was begun, with the result that the girl has sailed to marry the lover she has never seen.

World's Turquoise.

Ninety-nine per cent. of the world's turquoise comes from the mines of Nishapur, in Khorassan, the Persian city, by the way, in which Omar Khayyam was born and is buried.

The mines are situated in a range of hills consisting entirely of porphyries, greenstone, limestone, and sandstone. The turquoise is found in veins in the rocks. This ridge of hills runs to a height of 6,655 feet; the highest point at which turquoise has been found is 5,800 feet above sea level; the lowest point, 4,800 feet.

One mine is entered through a natural cave running out on to the side of the mountain, and is worked by means of rough shafts and levels.

After repeated instructions to learn the name of the caller and announce it, the maid did better, although it

BUSINESS FIGHT WINS CONVERTS

Campaign of Manufacturers Making Friends For Penrose.

HEART TO HEART TALKS

Practical Men Tell Voters How Things Stand With Industrial World and Why It Needs Senior Senator.

Philadelphia, May 4—Manufacturers in the various counties of the state, who are affiliating themselves with the Pennsylvania Protective Union, continue to show great activity and enthusiasm in the campaign for the renomination and re-election of Senator Penrose. The meetings that are being held in different county seats for the ratification of Penrose endorsements are attracting wide attention. Never before in the history of politics has a campaign been waged along these lines and the favorable effect upon public sentiment as regards the senior senator has been marked.

At Lebanon the speaker was B. Dawson Coleman, perhaps the most prominent manufacturer in Lebanon county. Mr. Coleman said that he was pleading the cause of Senator Penrose before the people of Lebanon county because he believed that this nation was "face to face with the most serious industrial and financial crisis in its history."

"Two years ago," continued Mr. Coleman, "the opinions and advice of manufacturers on political questions was neither appreciated nor accepted, but a great change has taken place. The public has learned that in hurting the employer it was hurting the employe, and incidentally, itself. We have come to realize that industry is one large vessel that carries us all, and that if the ship is scuttled everybody aboard must go down with her—the cook and the cabin boy as well as the captain and the mate.

Even Western Farmers Complain.

"We all know that business in Lebanon county is at a low ebb, and those of us who read the newspapers also know that the trouble is not confined to Lebanon county. I saw not long ago a resolution adopted by farmers of Idaho complaining because farm products had been placed upon the free list in the Democratic tariff law and had been affected to such an extent that in many instances prices had already been reduced below the cost of production.

"The condition of our railroads and of the iron and steel industries of the country is well known. You will have observed that pig iron is now coming in from Nova Scotia, thus outdoing the anomaly of 'carrying coals to New Castle.' If there is a single branch of trade which has not yet felt at least premonitory symptoms of the free trade paralysis, I do not know what it is.

"Why in our own county and town the plants are running about 50 per cent of their capacity. The head of a certain concern which formerly had a large business in the gulf states told me the other day that his product had been entirely supplanted there by foreign manufacturers who, under the new tariff and the cheap ocean freight rates prevailing from Europe to America, are able to sell at a profit at less than it costs him to produce. One of the largest and most successful industrial corporations in this state has recently passed its dividend.

Wages Reduced In Lebanon.

"In at least one local instance that I know of, wages have already been reduced, and I fear that we are on the verge of a general wage reduction all along the line. This, to my mind would be a calamity for which the American people would never forgive the Democratic administration. We have built up here in the United States a social and industrial standard which has made the American wage earner the envy and admiration of workers the world over. Labor here has risen to a new dignity. Honest toil has brought comforts and even luxuries that toilers never knew before.

"We have been told that the Underwood law is a 'tariff for revenue only.' The condition of business indicates very clearly that it certainly lives up to the word 'only.' There is, as Mr. Underwood said, 'not one atom of protection in it.'

"But recent figures from the department of commerce show also that it does not produce the revenues necessary to operate the government even in times of peace. In the month of March imports free of duty had increased to $111,053,400, as compared with $84,21 ,033 in March of 1913. Dutiable imports shrank from $71,229,4 in March, 1913, to $70,876,559 in March, 1914. Meanwhile our exports decreased, and the excess of exports over imports known as 'the balance of trade,' decreased from $31,981,213 in March, 1913, to $5,384,131 last month.

Facing War; Revenues Crippled.

"Thus, we are about to enter upon a costly war with an apparent balance of trade in our favor of about $60,000,000; whereas, under Republican administrations, our balance exceeded $650,000,000.

"Nor is there any good reason to suppose that this small balance of $5,000,000 a month will be retained, for as the sapping influence of free trade goes on the influx of foreign goods will be constantly greater and the exports of domestic goods constantly smaller. My prediction is that within six months the balance of trade will be against us instead of in our favor.

"So I say that there are many important phases to the senatorial campaign which will begin with the primaries on May 19. We must protect not only our private businesses, our employes and our farming communities, but we must protect Uncle Sam also.

"How shall we do it? Not by the election of a free trader to the United States senate. That goes without saying. Not by the election of a theoretical forester, who may know a great deal about trees, but who has certainly never given any indication that he knew much about practical business requirements. We must elect a Republican senator.

"That being the case, the first thing to consider is to eliminate one. There were in the field three candidates. One of them has withdrawn, leaving two—Mr. Dimmick, of Scranton, and our present senior senator, Mr. Penrose. I do not know Mr. Dimmick and I know very little about him except what has been said in the newspapers since he became a candidate. Of course, if the majority of Republicans want him they will nominate him at the primaries, and in that event we will all support him.

"But Senator Penrose we do know. Most of us have met him personally, and those of us who have not are thoroughly acquainted with his work in Washington in behalf of the eight million people who inhabit Pennsylvania. We know him to be honest. We know him to be energetic—prodigiously so. We know him to be capable and efficient. We know his facility for achieving things for Pennsylvania and his unswerving loyalty to the state he represents—its big interests and its little interests—its Republican interests and its Democratic interests—all interests and all classes.

Know Penrose; Want Others To.

"Surely, we would be very foolish men if, knowing Senator Penrose as we do, we were to fail to use our best efforts to convey the information we possess to other voters in the county who may not know him so well and who may have gotten a false impression of him through the tireless tirades of his personal enemies. Let us tell our Republican friends that if they want a senator in Washington who can lead for them they must retain the senator who is now leading for them and has been leading for many years. Newcomers in the United States senate are required by precedent to take a back seat and it would be a long time before Mr. Dimmick or any one else could possibly have the prestige and influence which Senator Penrose possesses and which Pennsylvania must have.

"Let us stop playing with dynamite and get together behind the Republican party with an earnestness and an enthusiasm which will prove us worthy of the reputation we earned as the greatest business nation on earth and the most dependable, least mercurial, most sensible people history has any record of."

The Lebanon county statement was signed by sixty-seven manufacturers.

Reading Hit by Tariff.

The Berks county statement bore the signatures of eighty manufacturers and was given out at a meeting in Reading, which was addressed by Charles E. Leippe, proprietor of the Reading Knitting Mills, who, after suggesting that it was time to "stop and consider what the Democratic administration has done for us," said:

"I received the other day some official figures, comparing the imports of foreign goods into this country during February of 1914 with similar imports of the same goods during February of 1913. Some of these articles, such as aluminum, watches, glassware and raw wools, neither Reading nor Berks county is vitally concerned in. Others, however, we manufacture here. When they begin to bring in cotton cloths, hosiery and other knit goods, cutlery, tanned leathers, vegetables, woolen cloths and wearing apparel, it is our ox that is being gored, and I want you to behold the alarming mutilation of it.

"We make cotton cloths here in Reading. The imports in February jumped 100 per cent.

"We make stockings. I make them in my mill. The increase in the imports of hosiery amounted to 40.5 per cent.

Imports Jump 677 Per Cent.

"In other knit goods, which are also made in Reading, the jump was from $43,825 worth in February, 1913, to $340,637 worth in February, 1914, or 677 per cent. Think of that! Nearly seven times as much of this cheap labor foreign goods brought in under the Democratic Underwood tariff law in February, 1914, as came in the preceding year under the Republicans.

"Do you wonder that our knitting mills are running along from hand to mouth, many of them on short time, and others contemplating wage reductions in order to keep afloat amid the free trade flood that is pouring in upon us?

"We make cutlery in Reading. The Democratic tariff law increased our imports of cutlery 34.6 per cent in one month. It gave us 79.6 per cent more tanned leather to compete with; 26 per cent more paper and manufactures of paper; 44 per cent more vegetables which have merely interfered with the farmers' prices and produced no relief to the consumer; 25 per cent more wearing apparel and 466 per cent more woolen manufactures of varieties not included under the other headings.

"Such are the conditions which our neighbor, Congressman A. Mitchell Palmer, has the audacity to paint as a great political and industrial triumph, warranting his promotion from the house of representatives to the United States senate. It is the height of effrontery, and I am glad to say that some good Democrats have joined with us Republicans in determining to rebuke it at the polls.

"Never was a vindication more absolute than that which has come to the position sturdily maintained and fought for by Senator Penrose against overwhelming odds in regard to protective tariff. He knew the importance of it and he had the courage to stand up for it when some of the rest of us were weak in the knees and almost inclined to believe that perhaps the tariff wasn't so important after all."

Carbon county manufacturers were addressed at a meeting last Friday in Mauch Chunk by William R. Butler, who grew sarcastic at the expense of Congressman Palmer.

Be Cheerful, But Not an Idiot.

"The present condition of business in Carbon county," said Mr. Butler, "is not at all satisfactory. Like the rest of the state and country, we are putting the best face on a bad business again and trying to do everything in our power to provide an antidote for the industrial poison that has been administered to the country from Washington.

"I am not a pessimist. I do not believe in saying that things have gone to the bow-wows and quitting. I am in favor of being as cheerful as possible under the circumstances, but I am emphatically opposed to permitting this optimism to carry us to a point where we thrown business acumen to the winds and through sheer indifference permit a continuation of the fallacious Democratic tariff legislation which has brought us to our present pass.

"Our representative in congress, Mr. A. Mitchell Palmer, who, by the way, is a man I know and like personally, has endeavored to explain away the results of the Underwood law. I was much interested in his recent speech at Bethlehem. I read it with care, but I must confess that it only convinced me of the hopelessness of Mr. Palmer's position. Why, gentlemen, I would rather be forced to defend the proposition to the effect that ten cents had the purchasing power of a dollar than to be confronted with the painful necessity of telling the wage earners that they did not know when they were out of work or why they were out of work.

"There is only one way to judge of the benefit or harm accruing from economic legislation, and that is by the prosperity or the depression which follows it.

"We have proved this pudding—crow pudding I should call it—because we are now eating it, and Mr. Palmer has undertaken a colossal task in assuming to convince us that the flavor is delicious."

FOR THE BIG CITY VISITOR

Advice Given Those Who Only Infrequently Have to Leave the Home Town.

Metropolitan blemishes and drawbacks are not often emphasized by the class of business men who are perhaps the most interested in bringing strangers to town—the hotel keepers. However, a New York boniface has had the frank and friendly inspiration to prepare a card of "don'ts" for presentation to each of his guests.

An early suggestion has to do with watches and money. Don't wear your timepiece loose on a fob, and don't believe that a hip pocket is as secure as a bank. Why carry a roll, anyway when the hotel office has a safe?

Next, the affable stranger. Don't let him persuade you that he is an old friend.

Next, life and limb. Don't believe that you are as swift as an automobile. And don't tote a gun—"it is better to run."

Next, traps. Don't go too confidently into unknown places; the way out is not always so straight and simple as the way in.

Yet, on the other hand, don't go to the harassing extreme of cautiousness and suspicion. The city is not bad just because it is big, nor is every one you meet necessarily a con man.

Big cities, speaking bromidically, are alike. Though no local hotel man has yet issued a bulletin of warning, what will serve the denizen of Schoharie and Kinderhook in New York will also advantage the visitor from Chebanse or Pecatonica in Chicago.—Chicago Post.

MURDERERS BURKE AND HARE

Men of Notorious Memory Should Still Be in the Recollection of Londoners.

The skeleton of the last of the body snatchers treasured in King's College hospital recalls that there must be Londoners still living who remember Hare, who, with his accomplice, Burke, first substituted murder for resurrecting corpses in order to supply subjects for the dissecting rooms. Burke (whose method of smothering the victims gave his name as a new verb to the language) was hanged on the testimony of his accomplice, for Hare turned queen's evidence and was released.

Forty years or so ago Hare was a well-known figure in London streets, for Serjeant Ballantine in his "Life," describes him as one of the most persistent blind beggars on the streets about 1870. Few people recognized the cold-blooded murderer in the middle-aged, stout man, clad in a white smock and led about by a dog. His blindness he owed to the fact that on leaving prison Hare found work in some lime kilns. The laborers discovered his history and threw him into a pit of lime. It was a terrible vengeance, for it destroyed his eyesight. And as it is not fifty years since he was a striking figure in London streets some people should recall him.—London Chronicle.

Comparison With Cave Man.

Everything considered, it is possible that the cave-man had an advantage over us. For though his words were few in number he had few ideas to voice, few thoughts to express, few activities to advance, and these were all of such a nature that his grunt was encyclopaedic in its ability to explain. On the other hand, life is now so complex that with all our words, inflections, accents, mimicry, postures and gestures we are often unable to make our meaning perfectly clear.

WASHINGTON MEN COMPOSE COMMITTEES

The "Good Roads" day movement in Washington county, which was formally launched last week when Tuesday, May 26, was set apart by proclamation of the court of the county and by the burgesses of the various boroughs, is being received with favor everywhere. Many have already volunteered for the work. "Dig in With Us" is the motto which is being used by the committee in charge of the active organization of the work.

The central executive committee has been made up of the following citizens of Washington; R. L. Munce, county commisioner; J. M. McKee, in charge of the Agricultural Bureau of the county, who is acting as secretary; A. J. Hinrichs, secretary of the Washington Fair association; John L. Stewart, president of the Observer Publishing company; former Sheriff C. E. Carothers, Rev. C. L. McKee, James P. Eagleson, attorney and representing the Washington automobile club; B. F. Mevay, Jr., of the A. B. Caldwell company; George S. Chaney and W. H. Armstrong, county engineers; Alex Gray, division superintendent of the State Highway department; William Wylie, civil engineer, and David C. Morrow, engineer of the borough of Washington.

A committee on committees, composed of Messrs. Munce, Carothers and Rev. C. L. McKee has selected the committees for the various townships and boroughs and these members are asked and instructed to enlarge their membership, appoint other committees and take up the work of organization with the central organization at Washington. The districting committee is composed of Messrs. Wylie, Chaney, Armstrong, Gray and Morrow, who will have charge of the work of districting the county for the repair and improvement of the roads on "Good Roads" day in connection with the local committees of each township. The chairman of the board of supervisors of each township are the respective chairman of the township committees.

Messrs. Mevay and Carothers form the finance committee and will add others to it throughout the county to secure funds necessary for carrying on the campaign.

John L. Stewart was named as chairman of the publicity committee, and he has named his committee for every section of the county, whose members will aid in arousing enthusiasm and giving publicity to the movements of the campaign as they progress.

A county-wide publicity campaign will be conducted to bring to the attention of every citizen the purposes of the "Good Roads" day and enlist support in carrying out its purpose. Within the next few days other committees will be named to push other features of the work incidental to the preparation of the work to be done on Tuesday, May 26.

WALLACE AND HAGENBECK IS THE NEXT SHOW

The Carl Hagenbeck and Great Wallace Shows combined will visit Charleroi on Tuesday May 12. For more than a quarter of a century the Great Wallace circus was said to be the best in all the land. Several years ago the big circus was consolidated with Carl Hagenbeck's trained wild animal exhibition. Carl Hagenbeck before his death was the "animal king" and the combination of the two shows for a single price of admission makes it something unheard of in the amusement world.

Today the circus has reached a size that is giving the railroads much concern. If the three trains were any longer they could not handle them. It enrolls over 1,200 people a thousand of whom travel along with the show. It has 600 horses, three herds of elephants, and 600 other animals. All of the equipment throughout this season is new. It cost the owner, Mr Walace, $4 000,000. The parade alone represents a cash outlay of $2,000,000. The menagerie is worth half as much. The best circus artists in the world have been engaged for this season; there are 600 of them.

CONTROLLER AND THE POOR BOARD DIFFER

Controller T. J Underwood and the poor board had a slight difference Tuesday.

H. B. Browneller, president of the poor board, presented the monthly bills for the County and Children's homes, and demanded they be paid according to the court's decree recently handed down.

The court held that the duty of the controller, in pasing on these bills, was simply ministerial, and that afterwards an audit could be made of the money expended by the poor board and then, if anything was wrong the board could be surcharged.

Upon the presntation of the bills Tuesday Mr. Browneller stated to the controller that he wished a check for the total at once, as the poor board already had its checks made out for mailing, upon the receipt of the money from the county. The controller inquired of him who were the treasurers for the two homes R. C. Buchanan is treasurer for the Children's home and John McNary for the County home.

The controller refused to pay any money over to the poor board until he was given the bonds of these treasurers. Mr. Browneller consulted counsel, and later said the bonds would be produced. They are in Mr. Browneller's hands, but at his home. As soon as they are put in the hands of the controller, the money will be paid.

My Symphony.

To live content with small means, to seek elegance rather than luxury, and refinement rather than fashion; to be worthy, not respectable, and wealthy, not rich; to study hard, think quickly, talk gently, act frankly; to listen to stars and birds, to babes and songs, with open heart; to bear all cheerfully, do all bravely, await occasions, hurry never—in a word, to let the spiritual, unbidden and unconscious grow up through the common—this is to be my symphony.—Channing.

Paul Weaver of Freeport, an infielder signed for a try out will be a few days late in reporting to the Governors. His father F. K. Weaver who is cashier of the First National bank at Freeport wrote to Manager Charles M. O'Day that Paul was kept from reporting immediately by a serious cold.

L. R. CRUMRINE IS RE-ELECTED SUPERINTENDENT

With a lead of but 15 votes on the third ballot L. R. Crumrine of Washington was named Tuesday by the school directors of Washington county to succeed himself for a four year term. The fight was close although on the first ballot Mr. Crumrine needed but one vote to elect him He had 127 votes while the combined vote of George R. Norris and E. B Enoch the other candidates was 127. Another ballot was necessary and in this Mr. Crumrine lost two votes, E. B. Enoch gained 11 and George R. Norris lost 10. At the end of this ballot the directors voted to drop the lowest man and the third ballot was between Mr. Crumrine and Mr. Enoch. Considerable of the support of Mr. Norris switched to Enoch but the final vote was sufficient to give Mr. Crumrine a lead of 15 votes.

The vote by ballots stood:

First, Crumrine, 127; Enoch, 87; Norris, 40.

Second, Crumrine, 125; Enoch, 98; Norris, 30.

Third, Crumrine, 132; Enoch, 117.

Of the 324 directors in the county 254 were present. West Pike Run township was the only district in the county that did not have a representative present.

Following the election the directors fixed the salary of the superintendent at $3,000 per year the same as it has been for the past term.

Six years ago when the final ballot was taken L. R. Crumrine had 161 votes and E. B. Enoch 151 or ten votes difference.

North Charleroi representatives present at the meeting were: C. A. Metz, John Stober, O. R. Chew, A. A. Caseber.

Speers representatives present were: Clyde Ross, William Cowell, Samuel R. Curl.
